

You want to ask the subject of your investigation for feedback regarding accusations and findings.
You email him/her about this.

You receive an anonymous USB/Flash drive by post and think it may contain information about your research. You open it on your laptop.

You have heard sensitive information about your subject and think your source's personal secretary may be able to confirm this. You send an email to a publicly enlisted mail address.

You are unable to reach someone for comment.
You connect with him/her on LinkedIn to send him/her a message.

